Re. : PDI Renewable Energy Strategy

Referring to reported news from Kaohoon and Stock Market News from various analyst and securities research on Thursday 28th August, PDI, Southeast Asia's sole zinc smelter would like to reiterate its renewable energy and waste management plans as part of its programme of turning itself into a "green business" operation.

PDI's renewable energy plans include investing in a 24 MW solar farm in Tak and an 18 MW wind farm in Nakorn Ratchasima. PDI is seeking licensing for these renewable projects, specifically PPA's (Power Purchase Agreements). At this stage, PDI did not award any construction contracts with any third party as wrongly mentioned by some news analysts.

Please be notified accordingly.

Yours truly,
